QUER BILLS.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that sealed tenders will be received by him up to the first of August next ensuing, from all parties willing to make loans on Exchequer Bills for two years, the bills to be payable to bearer, and the interest to be paid every six months, and to be so provided for by four coupons to each bill.

Fifty Bills of Five Hundred Dollars each, and twenty-five Bills of One Thousand Dollars each, will be issued, so as to complete the sum (not to exceed fifty thousand dollars) for which each party may tender.

Each tenderer is to state the rate of inter- Session. est per annum which he demands-to write at top of his letter, "Tender for Exchequer Bills"-to seal it, and address it to the undersigned.

The undersigned will not accept tenders 12 M. where the rate of interest desired appears to him to be too high.

L. KAMEHAMEHA, Acting Minister of Finance.

The House went into Committee upon the amendament of Elder Lewis' prophecy on Judge Lee and others. No doubt he is ashamed of it—I should be, if I was an Elder of the Church. It was not made one time only but it was of frequent occurrence, and I recollect Mr. Caine being there each and every time. The reason of Mr. Lewis making this prophecy was binding who are determined that if they cannot make headway against it they will not float along with it, will have to swing at their moorings and acknowledge that the utmost they can do is to remain stationary, like hulks and condemned is to remain stationary, like hulks and condemned that if they cannot make cur in the Amendment. The Act to amend the Penal Code was reamended. The Act to amend the Penal Code was rejected on its first reading, and very properly so, it being a little wart of Puritanism, intended to make people eat over-hung beef, phosphorescent fish and vapid vegetables on Sundays. To this the better sense of the House of Nobles objected of course, it being hinted that if honorable gentlemen below would look to the spirit through the letter of the laws given to the Jews, they would discover in them an undeviating regard for the would discover in them an undeviating regard for the health of the people legislated for, and constantly received the report of the Secretary at War; they had our ring precautions to secure for their use wholesome corrected in a deputation of three members to wait upon the King and inform him that the two Houses will be prepared to be prorogued, should it be His Majesty's pleasure, on Wednesday the 11th, and requesting that this House appoint a similar deputation. Lahaina, Maui, June 7th, 1856.

In your issue of the 31st ult. you publish an Act passed by the Legislature, entitled "An Act to regulate the Importation and sale of Opium and other poisonous drugs;" but as it contains provisions quite unnecessary, preamble, and at the same time mischievous and calculated to give a great deal of trouble to residents on these Islands, I beg leave to offer a few remarks suggested by it, through your columns.

Common sense would seem to require that Laws, if expected to be obeyed, should be adapted to the particular circumstances, habits, and state of the people for whom they are made; if not, they are certain to become a dead letter, and I much fear the act in question is destined to add another to the long list of such, already first time, appointing Prince Kamehameha, Chief Justice Lee and Justice Robertson a Committee to prepare a complete Civil Code, and report the same to the Legacomplete Civil alone would seem to require that those who are to be affected by it should be aware such a tax was in centernplation.
